Imagine an orchestra concert that welcomes everyone – where fidgeting is fine, chill-out spaces are ready, and the musical joy knows no boundaries.

The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra invites you to a musical afternoon designed to delight all families and friends. Whether you have a wiggly toddler, a child with additional needs, a loved one with dementia, or simply want a wonderfully inclusive concert experience – this is your musical celebration. Our brilliant presenter and incredible musicians are coming together to create a concert where you can move, dance, or sit quietly as you wish. No shushing. No stress. Just music that welcomes every single person exactly as they are.

‘Chill out’ spaces will be available for anyone needing some quiet time before re-entering the auditorium. At the end of the concert, you will be invited to take part in optional activities offering a range of musical interactive experiences led by the RPO musicians.

This performance is kindly supported by The Austin and Hope Pilkington Trust, The Marchus Trust, and Arts Council England
